Mastopexy

What is a mastopexy?

A mastopexy is a surgical procedure to lift and reshape the breasts. It involves removing excess skin and fat, and repositioning the nipple and areola. The procedure can be performed on one or both breasts.

How is it performed?

The procedure is performed under general anesthesia. The surgeon makes an incision around the areola and removes excess skin and fat. The nipple and areola are then repositioned and sutured into place. The incision is closed with sutures.
